

Colorado State University (CSU) has established an emergency loan program available to eligible employees experiencing a hardship for which the employee has an immediate need for financial assistance. The application is reviewed by the EHLF Review Committee (EHLFC) which determines if the loan is reasonable and necessary to meet a bona fide emergency. Examples include expenses related to the death of a family member, being a victim of a serious crime affecting financial accounts, urgent medical treatments not covered by insurance, or an unforeseen, calamitous event creating hardship not caused by the employee. Disclaimer Regarding Tax Liabilities. CSU and its employees and agents make no representation as to the tax consequences of any payment, loan or grant made under this or any other program. If there is any tax advice contained herein, it is not intended to be used, and cannot be used, by any taxpayer for the purpose of avoiding penalties that may be imposed under the internal revenue code.

- I understand that if, for any reason, payments are not received by the University as agreed, I am responsible for the full amount due and that, in the event of a late payment, a payment deferral charge of 1.5% of the amount owed will be added to the loan obligation each month until paid. I further understand and agree that if this obligation becomes delinquent at any time and must be referred by the University for collection, I am responsible for paying any late payment charges, collection agency fees up to 40% of the debt, and all costs and expenses including, but not limited to, reasonable attorney fees that CSU incurs in its collection efforts.
